A group of diverse people in professional attire (suits, blazers, dresses) are captured in mid-air, jumping and cheering against a light blue background. The scene conveys a sense of excitement and celebration.

THANK YOU!

A photograph of a diverse group of approximately ten people of various ages and ethnicities, all looking directly at the camera with neutral to slightly smiling expressions. They are seated in a row, possibly at a conference or event, with some individuals wearing name tags. The background shows large windows with a view of greenery outside.

WEBPACKER FOR RAILS 6

The screenshot shows a tweet from DHH (@dhh) with a blue checkmark. The tweet text reads:

Want to help get Webpacker to be the default JavaScript pipeline for Rails 6.0?
We're looking for volunteers to get us to wrap up the PR. Biggest blocker left is a bunch of testing coverage that needs updating.

Below the text is a thumbnail image of a man (DHH) and a link to a GitHub pull request titled "Make Webpacker the default JavaScript compiler f...". The GitHub link is github.com/rails/rails/pull/33079.

At the bottom of the tweet card, there are engagement metrics: 4 replies, 69 retweets, and 189 likes. To the right of the tweet card, there is a "Following" button.

Below the tweet card, there is a larger text block that continues DHH's message:

Once Webpacker is the default in rails/master, we'll be unveiling the alpha version of a brand-new exciting framework for Rails 6.0 😊.
